As digital design, digital model-making, and prototyping have elbowed their way into common practice, they have proven themselves to be both invaluable and disruptive to the jewelry profession. Bringing together the perspectives of artisans, educators, students, mavens from the realm of fine jewelry, renegades from the Wild West of the maker movement, and innovators from the digital engineering sector, Digital Meets Handmade addresses a wide range of topics in jewelry design, delving into the broad conversation around how digital technologies and virtuoso handcraft can coalesce in jewelry as wearable art. While one might expect a collision of cultures—"fine jewelry" craftspeople versus digital engineers—the result instead is a dazzling array of critical thinking, with stunning illustrations that foretell the future of jewelry.

She says, "From the moment that I finished my first piece there was no going back." When asked why she loved it so much the hobbyist replied, "I've always loved making things, I love the idea of taking a bunch of things and making something new out of it. It's much more enjoyable than buying something at the store because you took the time to make it with your own two hands." So, what made her decide to share her jewelry making knowledge? A lot of these people are just like I was when I started and have no idea how to tell the difference between a jump ring and a headpin. I wish there had been a detailed guide I could have used as reference back then." HowExpert publishes quick 'how to' guides on all topics from A to Z by everyday experts.

The Business of Jewelry - Viki Lareau 2018-05

Viki Lareau's new book, "The Business Of Jewelry," can help turn your jewelry making passion into jewelry making profits! Those of us who have discovered the joy of making jewelry will most likely find ourselves one day contemplating if we could sell our work? Others tell us all the time how gorgeous our jewelry is and that we should definitely be selling it! But how do we even start? Would people actually pay for our jewelry? What designs would we sell? Where would we sell them? Most importantly, how much would we charge? Once those questions start, they rarely stop until they are answered. Even after examining the possibility of turning this hobby into a business, we might decide it's not for us, that we would rather continue making jewelry for fun. That is good information to know for ourselves. Nothing is worse than wondering "what if"? The answers to all those questions and more are covered in this new book, "The Business Of Jewelry," originally written as an update to Viki's first book, "Marketing & Selling Your Handmade Jewelry" published by Interweave Press in 2006. While many of the ideas and concepts from that book are still important and relevant, a lot has changed in the last decade, especially in the landscape of marketing & selling for today's Artist. Today's Marketplace now makes it easier than ever before for anyone to start selling their handmade work and create a personal brand. That includes getting their work out to the masses & getting paid what they are worth! The Gatekeepers at Art Galleries or Department stores no longer control whose work will be seen or what price it will be sold at. As an Artist today (of any medium) there are countless options for how to sell your work, to reach your audience, and build your brand at your own pace. You can work full time or part-time. You can design this business around growing your family or after they've all left the nest. This business can provide a little extra income or a full-time living - all based on how you want to grow & scale this business. It is completely possible to create a brand, a life & an income as an Artist today - in fact, there has never been a better time! The chapters are in a chronological order for a suggested action plan. Each chapter includes countless resources with specific websites and examples to help you through each section and build your business step by step. Viki shares how modern Artist Entrepreneurs can create real wealth with a system of "Income Stacking" by utilizing new technologies. Today's advances in marketing and the accessibility to these advances are game changers for the independent Artist Entrepreneur - regardless of experience or age! Some of today's most talented Artists might have already retired from their real "jobs" long ago! Unfortunately, it is very common for those over 50 to fear new technologies because they didn't grow up with them. Some of the biggest advances are in how easy these platforms are to learn & use, and they will continue to get not only get easier but also more affordable each year! Would it have been better to start this business 5 years ago? Maybe, but the 2nd best time is now. If you have always wanted to be known as a Jewelry Designer, you have to be the first one to call yourself one. Then you can allow the rest of the world to discover who you are and fall in love with your work. If you love making jewelry & want to sell it, take it from someone who has been in the jewelry business for over 3 decades - there has never been a better time to build a business, an income & a life as an Artist, doing what you love and accomplishing the ultimate in work/life balance. It would be my honor & privilege for this book to be a part of your jewelry journey - Viki Lareau

Teens Have Style! - Sharon Snow 2013-03-18

Authors Sharon Snow and Yvonne Reed present fashion as a way to offer a fun and interesting program for teens in the library—and not just for girls. Today's fashion-savvy teenaged guys are just as likely to be eager participants. Teens Have Style!: Fashion Programs for Young Adults at the Library provides an easy-to-follow template for creating popular programs within the public or school library setting that will capture the attention of most teenaged girls. In Teens Have Style!, librarians will find programs they can adapt to their individual style or specific age range of their younger patrons, such as getting ready for the prom, making jewelry, decorating sneakers, creating a "green" outfit from recycled materials, and many more. All of the ideas are flexible and can be matched to other educational programs or to fit the library's needs, regardless of its size. For example, school librarians can partner with art teachers to orchestrate a "Fashion as Art" program, which challenges students to identify a painting that they like and then to create an outfit that reflects the style and feel of that work of art.
