T-REX Facts for Kids - Jacquelyn Elnor Johnson 2022-08-15

Who was the real T-Rex? Tyrannosaurus rex is everyone's favorite dinosaur. With that big toothy grin, T-rex stomps around and roars before chasing people, crunching up their cars and generally causing all kinds of trouble. This animal is big, he's bad and he's dangerous to know! Or at least that's the movie version of what T-rex was all about. It's great fun. But how true is it? What was T-rex really like? All the dinosaurs, including T-rex, died out millions of years ago. They left behind some fossils, bones, footprints and not much else but questions. Who were they, really? How did they live? Why are they gone? And could they come back, not just in the movies, but for real? T-Rex Facts for Kids answers these intriguing questions for kids ages 7 to 12. Here are newly-discovered T-rex facts for science-curious kids who love dinosaurs. This book has striking pictures and amazing fun facts, fully explained, about Tyrannosaurus rex, one of the last, largest and strangest dinosaurs. It includes: When, where, why and how T-rex lived in ancient Laramidia, what is now part of Western United States and Western Canada. Why and how T-rex got so big. What one jaw-dropping thing T-rex, but no other animal we know of, either ancient or modern, could do. How smart was T-rex, and how do we know this? What made Tyrannosaurs different from other dinosaurs? Did T-rex have feathers? Could T-rex come back? How could that happen? What T-rex mysteries remain to be solved by future scientists? Click on the buy button and start reading T-Rex Facts for Kids, for a wildly entertaining good time with one of the largest, fiercest, strangest, and most totally awesome dinosaur that ever lived! As well as a helpful homework resource, it is an interesting dinosaur book for kids to read for pleasure. Some fantastic facts that can be found inside include: # Sauropods probably had to eat most of the time, 20 hours of every 24. They had enormous bodies that would need great amounts of food, but only small mouths to gather food. # Recent fossil finds show that some dinosaurs looked after their babies, like some reptiles do today. # Most experts now believe that birds evolved from small, meat-eating dinosaurs. This means not all dinosaurs died out, or went extinct, 65 million years ago. Quiz questions and activities for kids from 300 Fantastic Facts Dinosaurs: # Make a Troodon mask from stiff card, safe scissors, elastic and coloured pencils. # Which body parts of a dinosaur were most likely to become fossils? Remember, fossils form the hardest, toughest bits that last long enough to become buried in the rocks and turned to stone. # Put these dinosaurs and modern animals in order of top running speed, from slow to fast."
