Southern Edwardseans - Obbie Tyler Todd 2022-01-17
The founders and forerunners of the Southern Baptist Convention were fundamentally shaped by the thought of Puritan theologian Jonathan Edwards and his theological successors. While Baptists in the antebellum South boasted a different theological pedigree than Presbyterians or Congregationalists, and while they inhabited a Southern landscape unfamiliar to the bustling cities and tall forests of New England, they believed their similarities with Edwards far outweighed their differences. Like Edwards, these Baptists were revivalistic, Calvinistic, loosely confessional, and committed to practical divinity. In these four things, Southern Edwardseanism lived, moved, and had its being. In the nineteenth-century, when so many Presbyterians scoffed at Edwards's "innovation" and Methodists scorned his Calvinism, Baptists found in Edwards a man after their own heart. By 1845, at the first Southern Baptist Convention, Southern Edwardseans had laid the groundwork for a convention marked by the theology of Jonathan Edwards.

Consumer Protection Act

2007 - Ireland 2008-01-01

The Consumer Protection Act 2007 marks a watershed in Irish consumer protection law. It provides the statutory basis for the National Consumer Agency (NCA) which replaces the office of Director of Consumer Affairs (ODCA). It transposes into Irish law the provisions of the EU Directive on unfair business-to-consumer commercial practices (Directive 2005/29/EC) and introduces a new term of "average customer". The Consumer Protection Act 2007 is an off print from the Irish Current Law Statutes Annotated. Timothy Bird B.C.L., is a barrister with wide experience in consumer protection and consumer credit law.

Butterworths Commercial and Consumer Law Handbook Eighth Edition - Richard Mawrey 2015-04-23

The eighth edition of Butterworths Commercial and Consumer Law Handbook contains an invaluable collection of UK statutory material and EC materials. This title is fully up-to-date with all the latest commercial and consumer law changes making it an essential reference source for practitioners involved with this area of the law. This new edition has been fully updated to include the new Consumer Rights Act. The implementation of the Consumer Credit Directive 2008 has resulted in major amendments to the Consumer Credit Act 1974 and swathes of new regulations. The applicable law now depends on the type of agreement. You need to know the three phases of consumer credit law - before the 2004-06 changes; after the changes but before the Directive; after the Directive. These can all be found with this handy reference work.

Electronic Consumer Contracts in the Conflict of Laws - Zheng Sophia Tang 2015-10-22

The second edition of this highly recommended work addresses the interaction between conflict of laws, dispute resolution, electronic commerce and consumer contracts. In addition it identifies specific difficulties that conflicts lawyers and consumer lawyers encounter in electronic commerce and proposes original approaches to balance the conflict of interest between consumers' access to justice and business efficiency. The European Union has played a leading role in this area of law and its initiatives are fully explored. It pays particular attention to the most recent development in collective redress and alternative/online dispute resolution. By adopting multiple research methods, including a comparative study of the EU and US approach; historical analysis of protective conflict of laws; doctrinal analysis of legal provisions and economic analysis of law, it provides the most comprehensive examination of frameworks in cross-border consumer contracts.
